

Consent form

Consent Form

We are conducting an expert survey on the information environment. You have been invited to participate in this survey because you are an expert on topics related to the information environment, such as the news, freedom of information, social media, digital platforms, recommendation algorithms, misinformation, hate speech, media literacy, or fact-checking. If you do not have expertise related to the information environment, please do not take this survey.

This survey should take between 15 and 25 minutes. You may only participate in this survey if you are 18 years old or over. The data gathered will be used for the annual IPIE expert report on the information environment and related research. No personal information will be used in our research.

Do I have to take part?

Your participation is voluntary. You may withdraw at any point during the questionnaire for any reason before submitting your answers by closing the browser. Your responses will be deleted if you decide to drop-out.

How will my data be used?

Your answers will be confidential, and we will take all reasonable measures to ensure that they remain protected. Your data will be stored in password-protected encrypted laptops and may be used in academic publications. Research data will be stored for a minimum of three years after publication or public release. Your data will be used in subsequent years. We will not collect your IP addresses or location data.

Compensation

After the survey, you can claim a $25 (or currency equivalent) gift through BHN Rewards (formerly Rybbon). If you choose to claim the reward, BHN Rewards—a secure platform and GDPR compliant company—will request your email address so you can claim your reward. Your email address will not be connected to your survey submission, but if you do not wish to enter your email address on the BHN Rewards website, you can send us an email and we will provide alternative options.

Please note that due to regulatory restrictions, we are unable to send rewards to participants located in the following countries: Afghanistan, Belarus, Cuba, Iran, Iraq, North Korea, Russia, Syria, Ukraine, and Yemen.

Who will have access to my data?

We added your email to Qualtrics, a GDPR-compliant company, to invite you to participate in the survey. The researchers are the only ones who have access to this password-protected account. We will delete any identifiable data six months after we publish the study. Please see their privacy notice here: <https://www.qualtrics.com/privacy-statement/>. BHN Rewards is the platform through which your award is delivered. BHN Rewards will only use your email to send the reward. Please see their privacy notice here: <https://www.bhnrewards.com/security/>.

Who do I contact if I have a concern about the study or if I would like to file a complaint?

This survey is conducted by Sacha Altay, a postdoctoral researcher at the University of Zürich and consulting scientist for the IPIE, and Sebastián Valenzuela, a full professor at the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile and chief science officer for the IPIE. This survey has been reviewed by and received ethics clearance through the IPIE Ethics Committee. If you have concerns about this study, contact Sacha Altay at sacha.altay@ipie.info. We will acknowledge your concerns within 10 working days and indicate how they will be addressed. If you wish to make a formal complaint, contact the IPIE's secretariat (secretariat@ipie.info).

Definitions to keep in mind

We define 'information environment' as the aggregate of the physical, social, and digital surroundings that influence how individuals, organizations, or countries communicate, interact, and process information.

We define 'political issues' as any issues affecting society, the economy, or governance that are at least partially addressed through public policy. Examples include healthcare, foreign affairs, religious freedom, and immigration.

We define online ‘harassment’ as the use of digital technologies (e.g., social media, email, messaging) to repeatedly intimidate, humiliate, or harm an individual or group, often involving hateful, discriminatory, aggressive, or explicit content.

- ☐ To a large extent: Laws criminalize publication on security grounds, with few or no safeguards.
- ☐ Unable to answer

To what extent do the laws of ${e://Field/CountryText} or its regional authority (e.g., the EU for countries in Europe) mandate that citizens and journalists are able to access government information and official records (e.g., through Freedom of Information or Right-to-Information laws)?

- ☐ Not at all: No meaningful legal right exists.
- ☐ Limited: Some legal right exists but it is severely limited in scope.
- ☐ Moderate: A legal right exists but with significant exemptions.
- ☐ Strong: There is a broad legal right with limited exemptions.
- ☐ Unable to answer

To what extent do the laws of ${e://Field/CountryText} or its regional authority (e.g., the EU for countries in Europe) require online platforms to disclose how content is selected, promoted, or moderated (e.g., the logic of algorithms)?

- ☐ Not at all: There are no legal disclosure requirements.
- ☐ To a limited extent: There are narrow disclosure requirements specific to content or platform types.
- ☐ To a moderate extent: There are disclosure requirements, but significant gaps exist.

- ☐ To a large extent: There are broad disclosure requirements across all content and platform types.
- ☐ Unable to answer

Expert Block 2

What portion of the main news outlets in  $\{e://Field/CountryText\}$  are owned or controlled by business elites with close ties to the ruling political parties or politicians?

- ☐ None or almost none
- ☐ Some
- ☐ Many
- ☐ All or almost all
- ☐ Unable to answer

To what degree does the government of  $\{e://Field/CountryText\}$  censor political content (i.e., deleting or filtering specific posts for political reasons) on social media in practice?

- ☐ The government simply blocks all social media platforms.
- ☐ The government successfully censors all social media with political content.
- ☐ The government successfully censors a significant portion of political content on social media, though not all of it.
- ☐ The government only censors social media with political content that deals with especially sensitive issues.
- ☐ The government does not censor political social media content.
- ☐ Unable to answer

Vignettes

For the next few questions, we'll ask you to consider and evaluate government censorship of political content on social media in four hypothetical countries, designated as "Hypothetical Country [number]." Your answers to these questions will help us understand how your perceptions of the political information environment compare to the perceptions of other respondents, especially those in other countries.

In Hypothetical Country 42, the government bans the use of all social media sites. However, highly educated citizens frequently use an external photo-sharing social media site to post and discuss some images that would otherwise be blocked on government-controlled social media sites. Images of a highly political nature continue to be blocked on the photo-sharing site, however the government allows apolitical images to remain accessible.

In your view, to what degree does the government of Hypothetical Country 42 censor political content (i.e., deleting or filtering specific posts for political reasons) on social media in practice?

- ☐ The government simply blocks all social media platforms.
- ☐ The government successfully censors all social media with political content.
- ☐ The government successfully censors a significant portion of political content on social media, though not all of it.
- ☐ The government only censors social media with political content that deals with especially sensitive issues.
- ☐ The government does not censor political social media content.

In Hypothetical Country 18, the government maintains a large bureaucracy dedicated to reading a substantial portion of the content posted domestically on social media. In the weeks leading up to a critical election, nearly all discussion of the election is deleted by the government as quickly as it is posted.

In your view, to what degree does the government of Hypothetical Country 18 censor political content (i.e., deleting or filtering specific posts for political reasons) on social media in practice?

- ☐ The government simply blocks all social media platforms.
- ☐ The government successfully censors all social media with political content.
- ☐ The government successfully censors a significant portion of political content on social media, though not all of it.
- ☐ The government only censors social media with political content that deals with especially sensitive issues.
- ☐ The government does not censor political social media content.

The Ministry of Telecommunications in Hypothetical Country 36 maintains a keyword list of political topics that are banned in online discussion. Any social media post that uses one of these keywords is automatically deleted by Internet Service Providers in the country. However, through continued use, citizens have a general idea of which words are on the blocked list. As a result, they are able to discuss political issues online by avoiding these specific words and thereby evading government censorship.

In your view, to what degree does the government of Hypothetical Country 36 censor political content (i.e., deleting or filtering specific posts for political reasons) on social media in practice?

- ☐ The government simply blocks all social media platforms.
- ☐ The government successfully censors all social media with political content.

- ☐ The government successfully censors a significant portion of political content on social media, though not all of it.
- ☐ The government only censors social media with political content that deals with especially sensitive issues.
- ☐ The government does not censor political social media content.

In Hypothetical Country 24, the government ignores social media posting, with the exception of posts that speak positively of a neighboring country that has historically been hostile. Posts that violate this rule are immediately deleted.

In your view, to what degree does the government of Hypothetical Country 24 censor political content (i.e., deleting or filtering specific posts for political reasons) on social media in practice?

- ☐ The government simply blocks all social media platforms.
- ☐ The government successfully censors all social media with political content.
- ☐ The government successfully censors a significant portion of political content on social media, though not all of it.
- ☐ The government only censors social media with political content that deals with especially sensitive issues.
- ☐ The government does not censor political social media content.
